

Contents

Author's Note	xi
Foreword	xiii
By Casey Camp-Horinek, Ponca Nation, Environmental Ambassador, and Hereditary Drum Keeper of the Ponca Tribe

Part I

Entering the Terrain of Worldviews and Climate Justice	1
Chapter 1 Worldviews Are a Portal	3
Chapter 2 The Story Is in Our Bones: Origin Stories to Remake Our World	25
Chapter 3 Ancient Trees and Ancestral Warnings	45
Chapter 4 A Visionary Declaration from the Amazon	67

Part II

Dismantling Patriarchy, Racism, and the Myth of Whiteness: Ancient Mother and Women Rising	85
Chapter 5 She Rises	87
Chapter 6 Tracing and Healing the Assault on Women	103
Chapter 7 Listening to Black and Indigenous Women and Debunking the Myth of Whiteness	115
Chapter 8 Worldviews of Our Ancestral Lineages.....	133

Part III

Reciprocity: A Thousandfold Act of Responsibility and Love..	149
Chapter 9 Offering and Tending to the Land	151
Chapter 10 Composting the Cultural Toxins of Colonization and Capitalism.....	177

Chapter 11 Reciprocal Relationships with People and Land	205
---	-----

Part IV

Living in Balance with the Natural Laws of the Earth	233
---	-----

Chapter 12 Rights of Nature: A Systemic Solution	235
---	-----

Part V

The Land Is Speaking: Language, Memory, and a Storied Living Landscape	271
---	-----

Chapter 13 Worldviews Conjured by Words	273
--	-----

Chapter 14 Songlines Through the Landscape	299
---	-----

Chapter 15 Building a Relationship with the Storied Land	309
---	-----

Reader's Guide and Resources	321
---	-----

Acknowledgments	323
----------------------------------	-----

Credits	326
--------------------------	-----

Endnotes	327
---------------------------	-----

Index	357
------------------------	-----

About the Author	375
-----------------------------------	-----

About the Publisher	376
--------------------------------------	-----